Sugar and rum is Barbados, and Barbados is sugar and rum. The stories are inextricably linked!

The English colony of Barbados witnessed a colossal transformation of its economic fortunes following the introduction of sugar and rum in the 1640s. Within three decades, the Barbadian frontier economy dominated by small farmsteads, worked by indentured European labour, growing such produce as cotton and tobacco, had been replaced by large plantations worked by enslaved Africans. Cultivation of sugar cane and the windmill technology were quickly introduced by the exiled Jewish community which sought refuge in Barbados from religious persecution in Europe and Brazil, during the mid-17th century. In the ensuing years Barbados had become populated with over 500 windmills, which resulted in the island having the second highest density of these structures per square mile in the world, second only to the Netherlands.

Though small scale sugar farming took place prior to the sugar revolution in the 1640s, this early experimentation produced a new liquor known as Kill Devil, which was later called Rum, from as early as the mid-1630s, thereby making Barbados the birthplace of Rum.

By the end of the century the island was said to be the richest spot of land of all the European colonies in the Caribbean region and the “brightest jewel in the British crown”. This great wealth was made possible by the forced labour of the enslaved and therefore, we owe it to them to tell this story.

Since the first settlement in 1625, Barbados was an agricultural-based economy, dominated by sugar and rum, until production of these commodities was eclipsed by tourism in the 1990’s. This rich heritage is therefore given pride of place through the introduction of the Barbados Sugar and Rum Season. This is an exciting, educational, and experiential season, which is steeped in creativity, history and authenticity. The Barbados Tourism Product Authority presents the 2018 Barbados Sugar and Rum Season!
Visit one of three remaining Jacobean Mansions in the Western Hemisphere, (two of which are located in Barbados) to experience the daily operations of a plantation, as actors and dancers present a mesmerising re-enactment at “Canepiece to Cask, Stories from St. Nicholas Abbey”. As they take you from the fields to the factory to grind sugar cane, and to witness and learn about the distillation of rum, these actors and dancers will portray the personal stories and testimonies of those who lived on the plantation, while paying tribute to sugar and rum. There will be installations consisting of dance, monologues and conversations complementing St. Nicholas Abbey’s house tour and activities. A scenic ride on a historic Bajan Open Bus to and from St. Nicholas Abbey is also included. A truly holistic Barbadian experience from beginning to end. This is an event not to be missed!

The story of one of the world’s finest spirits flows as you drive pass the spaces once occupied by the barrels and bottles, which were enjoyed by the Royal Navy of England, the British Garrison of the West Indies, and by local Plantocrat and Plebeian alike. Then, walk to the ‘fons et origo’ of the product and also revisit the locales of the dozens of City merchants and their individual Rum merchandise. This is a must-do tour for every connoisseur and history buff and is guided by renowned, local historian, Morris Greenidge.

The Characters of Town
The cultivation and exportation of sugar cane made Barbados an extremely wealthy country, and with over 500 windmills, mass production ensured continuous growth. This was all made possible by the Jewish community in Barbados, who immigrated to Barbados as they sought refuge from religious persecution in Europe and Brazil. Visit the oldest synagogue in the Western Hemisphere and the adjacent Nidhe Israel Museum, which documents the fascinating story of the Barbados Jewish community while paying homage to its role in Barbadian heritage and society. At the museum, you can find a timeline chronicling the Jewish settlement, their role in the sugar industry, see historic artefacts and view interactive displays, which are designed to provide a more realistic and detailed experience.

Since 2011, the Synagogue has been designated as a UNESCO protected property within the World Heritage Site of Historic Bridgetown and its Garrison.
